Help Turtles in Trouble – Sign up and be a Conservation Hero!

Turtles play a critical role in keeping marine ecosystems healthy; the same ecosystems which sustain our fisheries and tourism industries that provide food and livelihoods for millions of people.

Marine turtles are threatened with extinction due to various factors, including:

- the practice of consuming turtle eggs
- becoming accidentally caught in fishing gear
- poorly planned coastal development
- marine and nesting beach pollution
- illegal trade of turtles and their parts

Did you know?

- Leatherback turtles have already been declared functionally extinct in Malaysia. In the 1950s, there were 10,000 leatherback nests in Rantau Abang each year; now there are less than 10
- Turtle protection laws are inadequate. Current Federal law on turtles are limited. Moreover, under the Constitution, states have the authority to make laws on turtles, meaning that state laws vary from state to state and have loopholes

Comprehensive Federal laws, additional resources and heightened enforcement are needed to effectively protect our turtles.

Help to save turtles by signing up to support the WWF-Malaysia “Egg = Life” Campaign at www.org.my or completing the form below; and pledge the following:

- ✓ I support laws that will ban the sale and consumption of all turtle eggs throughout Malaysia
- ✓ I support the call for comprehensive and holistic Federal legislation to conserve marine turtles
- ✓ I pledge never to consume turtle eggs, or trade in turtles or their parts
